

Paid Courses With Different Subscription Options

Let's say you have an ongoing course with topics, resources and content. You may want to provide your students with access to this course for some limited amount of time. For instance you may want to provide a subscription term of 1 day, 1 week, 2 weeks and 1 month. Each option would be priced separately.

This guide explains how to create paid course and configure different pricing options depending on the subscription term.

Create Your Paid Course

The first thing to do is to create your paid course as you normally do with all paid courses. The steps are outlined here: <http://support.e-lecta.com/Knowledgebase/Article/50009>

Once you reach the payment options you will be able to specify what subscription terms this course offers, as shown below.

To disable the "Entire Course Term" enrollment option leave the field "Course Price" empty or 0.00.

When your students register for this course they will be provided a list of options to choose from - each option with the price as configured above.

The diagram illustrates the flow from the pricing configuration to the student registration interface. On the left, the 'Pricing Options' screen shows five subscription terms with their respective prices: 'For the entire course' (EUR 200.00), 'For 1 Day(s)' (EUR 10.00), 'For 1 Week(s)' (EUR 50.00), 'For 2 Week(s)' (EUR 90.00), and 'For 1 Month(s)' (EUR 150.00). A green arrow points to the right, where the student registration form is shown. The form includes radio buttons for each subscription option, with 'For 2 Week(s)' selected. Below the options are input fields for 'First Name' and 'Last Name'.

For the entire course	EUR 200.00
For 1 Day(s) 6/15/2017	EUR 10.00
For 1 Week(s) 6/21/2017	EUR 50.00
